Principle 1.4: Cross-Shareholdings

1. The Company acquires and holds shares for the purpose of cross-shareholdings if it is deemed to contribute to higher corporate value from a medium- to long-term perspective, taking into consideration the grounds therefor, such as maintaining and strengthening business relationships and the necessity for business operation. In addition, the Company will continue the transactions with cross-shareholdings upon careful examination of the underlying economic rationale, and will not engage in transactions with cross-shareholdings which may harm the interests of the Company or the common interests of its shareholders.

2. The Board of Directors annually assesses whether or not to hold each individual cross-shareholding, specifically examining the economic rationale for each transaction such as whether the purpose is appropriate and whether the benefits and risks from each holding cover the company’s cost of capital, and discloses the purpose. The Company strives to reduce less important cross-shareholding and sells such shares while monitoring stock market trends. The Company held 25 listed stocks as of the end of March 2021 and six as of the end of March 2025, but as of the end of March 2026, the Company has reduced its holdings of listed shares to a single issue held in a significant business partner with economic rationale. When exercising voting rights of cross-held shares, the Company observes specific standards.

3. If a company holding shares in the Company for the purpose of cross-shareholding indicates its intention to sell those shares, the Company will not imply a possible reduction of business transactions or otherwise hinder the sale of the cross-held shares.

4. The Company exercises voting rights of cross-held shares in accordance with the following standards to ensure that they are exercised appropriately:

(1) Examine the details of proposals and decide whether they contribute to increasing the corporate value of the Company as a shareholder;

(2) Vote against proposals for election of directors or other officers in the case of a company on which investment returns have continuously been extremely low and whose performance have continuously been poor with no indication of improving, or in the case of directors or other officers who have committed an anti-social act or law violation; and

(3) Vote against proposals that are damaging to the corporate value of the Company as a shareholder, whether they are company proposals or shareholder proposals.

The Company obtains prior approval of its Board of Directors for engaging in a transaction with its Director or any other related party. At the beginning of each fiscal year, the Company investigates whether any transaction with a related party exists, and its Board of Directors checks the necessity for continuing the existing transaction. Furthermore, the Company sets forth procedures for managing these transactions with related parties in the Rules on Related Party Transactions.

The Company primarily promotes local foreign nationals to the core positions in the overseas subsidiaries. Many mid-career hires have already been promoted to core positions through the acquisition of divisions of other companies. The Company will continue to actively hire and promote mid-career personnel in accordance with its business performance expansion.

The Audit and Supervisory Committee Members of the Company are dedicated to the Audit and Supervisory Committee, independent of Executive Directors, and out of reach of Executive Directors' authority to give commands and orders with respect to those Directors' and staff's supporting the duties of the Audit and Supervisory Committee. In addition, there is a system in place for Directors to collect, in addition information provided by the Company, any additional information from relevant internal divisions to fulfill their roles and responsibilities, with the Administration Division, or other organizational units acting as a point of contact.

Cooperation among Audit and Supervisory Committee, Accounting Auditors, and Internal Audit Divisions

- (3) The external accounting auditor cooperates with Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members, the accounting division, and the internal audit division at regular audit results briefing meetings that are fixed in audit time schedules. In addition, the external auditor meets and cooperates with Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members or the internal audit division on an as-needed basis during its execution of audit operations.
- (4) The Company has a system in place for the Division Manager of the Administration Division to report any deficiency or fraud found by the external accounting auditor to the Board of Directors, and for the Director in charge of relevant operations to lead the efforts to correct it and report to the Board of Directors. Supplementary Explanation

Updated

- Performance-linked bonuses and calculation methods thereof

For the calculation method of performance-linked bonuses of Directors (excluding Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members; hereinafter “Directors” in this item), the Company receives a document stating to the effect that the Audit and Supervisory Committee has found the method to be fair. Performance-linked bonuses, which are tied to short-term profits, are calculated and paid after close of the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders, based on a guideline of approximately 17% of total remuneration. The Board of Directors determines the calculation method for Directors’ performance-linked bonuses (excluding those for External Directors), based on a report from the HR and Remuneration Committee.

With the aim of providing incentives for enhancing mid- to long-term corporate value as envisioned in the Medium-Term Management Plan, “Next Growth 2030,” a portion of Directors’ bonuses is structured as Medium-Term Management Plan-linked bonuses. Such bonuses are set at 8% of total remuneration as a benchmark and are paid within a range of plus or minus 30% of the standard amount for each position based on the degree of achievement of targets related to “market value,” “human capital value,” “trust in FUSO,” and “sustainability.” The evaluation items consist of those assessed based on the achievement of single-year targets, as well as those evaluated over a multi-year period for improvement and progress. The specific evaluation items and their respective weightings for each Director are left to the discretion of Mr. Shinichi Sugita, Representative Director & President.

It is decided that the amount of other bonuses of Directors is left to the discretion of Mr. Shinichi Sugita, Representative Director & President, in comprehensive consideration of business performance for the current fiscal year, the level of contribution of each Director, and other factors, after discussions by the Board of Directors based on a report from the HR and Remuneration Committee.

- Indicators and calculation methods of performance-linked bonuses

The base amount is calculated by adding depreciation to consolidated profit before income taxes before recording director bonuses, and multiplying the amount obtained by 0.0153819%. Performance-linked bonuses are calculated by multiplying the base amount by a factor of each Director (fractions of less than 10,000 yen is rounded down). However, a cap is set on the base amount. Performance-linked bonuses will not be paid if the amount obtained by adding depreciation to consolidated profit before income taxes before recording director bonuses is less than 29.7 billion yen.

- Reasons for selecting indicators pertaining to performance-linked bonuses

The Group considers capital investments to be essential for future growth and thus positions “operating income before depreciation” as the most important management indicator. “Consolidated profit before income taxes before recording director bonuses” is obtained by adding/subtracting non-operating income/losses such as interest income and foreign exchange gains/losses, and extraordinary income/losses, which should be subject to management risk control, to/from this most important indicator, and the Group has determined it as the most appropriate indicator. As “consolidated profit before income taxes” includes director bonuses, director bonuses are excluded from the calculation.

- Details of non-monetary remuneration

The Company pays restricted stock-based compensation to Directors (excluding Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee members and External Directors) from fiscal 2023 based on the resolution at the 66th Annual General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 23, 2023. The purpose of the compensation is to provide incentives for the sustainable enhancement of the Company’s corporate value and to further align interests with shareholders. The shares are subject to transfer restrictions until retirement, on the condition that the eligible Directors continuously hold office from the date of the General Meeting of Shareholders immediately prior to the grant date until the date of the following year’s General Meeting of Shareholders. The quantity of shares granted and the conditions for acquisition, including clawback provisions in cases of regulatory or internal rule violations, are determined by the Board of Directors, based on the report of the HR and Remuneration Committee.

The number of shares granted to the Company’s Directors (excluding Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee members and External Directors) as compensation for the execution of their duties in the previous fiscal year was 8,595 shares to seven Directors.

- Delegation of decision of remuneration, etc. for individual Directors

The Board of Directors delegates decisions to Mr. Shinichi Sugita, Representative Director & President, on the base amount of each Director and the allocation of evaluation points based on the performance of divisions of which Directors are respectively in charge and other factors, excluding External Directors. The reasons for the delegation are that the Representative Directors are considered to be most suitable persons to evaluate duties of which Directors are respectively in charge while having the perspective of the Group’s performance as a whole.

The range of adjustments is limited to within 20% above or below the center value of monthly base remuneration for each position.

The method of calculating the performance-linked bonuses paid to Directors excluding the External Directors is determined by the Board of Directors in accordance with the report from the HR and Remuneration Committee, and the Audit and Supervisory Committee has determined that the contents are appropriate. In addition, with the aim of providing incentives for enhancing mid- to long-term corporate value as envisioned in the Medium-Term Management Plan, "Next Growth 2030," a portion of Directors' bonuses is structured as Medium-Term Management Plan-linked bonuses. Such bonuses are set at 8% of total remuneration as a benchmark and are paid within a range of plus or minus 30% of the standard amount for each position based on the degree of achievement of targets related to "market value," "human capital value," "trust in FUSO," and "sustainability." The specific evaluation items and their respective weightings for each Director are left to the discretion of Mr. Shinichi Sugita, Representative Director & President.

Updated

The amendment of the Articles of Incorporation for the shift to a company with audit and supervisory committee was resolved by the 61st Annual General

Meeting of Shareholders held on June 22, 2018. Accordingly, the Company has transitioned from a company with company auditors to a company with audit and supervisory committee on the same date. This transition is aimed at increasing the effectiveness of the oversight function over the execution of duties by Directors and further enhance the corporate governance system of the Company and its subsidiaries (the “Group”), with the Audit and Supervisory Committee becoming the organization that audits and oversees the execution of duties by Directors. In addition, the Company expects to achieve faster management decision-making and higher flexibility in business execution by allowing delegation of important business execution, partly or wholly, to Directors by resolution of the Board of Directors going forward.

1. Organs

The Board of Directors is composed of eight Directors (excluding Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members) and four Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members (including four External Directors) and meets monthly in principle and on an as-needed basis. The Board of Directors decides on important matters including matters set forth in the Board of Directors Regulations and basic management policies, and oversees the execution of duties by Directors.

The Company has the HR and Remuneration Committee as a voluntary advisory organ to the Board of Directors. The HR and Remuneration Committee deliberates on matters relating to personnel affairs and remuneration, etc. of Directors upon consultation by the Board of Directors and reports the deliberation results to the Board of Directors. The rules provide that the HR and Remuneration Committee is chaired by an Independent External Director, which ensures appropriate involvement and advice by Independent External Directors, thereby increasing the independence, objectivity, and transparency of the Board of Directors’ functions, and further enhancing the corporate governance system.

In addition, the Board of Managing Directors that is comprised of seven full-time Directors (excluding Audit and Supervisory Committee Members) and one Director who is Audit and Supervisory Committee Member, meets once a month. Furthermore, the Management Committee that consists of attendees of the Board of Managing Directors’ meetings and executive employees including Executive Officers and presidents of Group companies meets once in three months. The Board of Managing Directors and the Management Committee exercise oversight of the Group as a whole by receiving reports on the status of business execution in the Group, deliberating carefully from various aspects, and speedily making decisions.

The Audit and Supervisory Committee is comprised of four Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members (including four External Directors) and meets monthly in principle and on an as-needed basis. The Audit and Supervisory Committee audits not only the legality but also the appropriateness of Directors’ execution of duties. For the Board of Directors meeting held in fiscal 2025, all Directors including External Directors attended all meetings. All Audit and Supervisory Committee Members attended all Audit and Supervisory Committee meetings.

Audits by the Audit and Supervisory Committee check the status of business execution by such means as attendance to all meetings of the Board of Directors, the Board of Managing Directors, and the Management Committee mainly by full-time Audit and Supervisory Committee Members, and receiving reports on important agenda items from relevant Directors in charge. In addition, the Audit and Supervisory Committee carries out audits based on audit policies, audit plans, and the like determined by the Audit and Supervisory Committee.

When a candidate is appointed, he or she will be insured under the policy. The Company bears the full amount of premiums for the insurance contract, including the special contract.

3. Reasons for Adoption of the Current Corporate Governance System

Effective from June 22, 2018, the Audit and Supervisory Committee replaced Company Auditors (Board of Company Auditors) as the organ that audits and oversees the execution of duties by Directors. This change is considered to have increased the effectiveness of the function of overseeing the execution of duties by Directors and further strengthened the Company’s corporate governance system.
